Obesity01

This week, we are reporting on real progress reducing childhood obesity in New York City and Los Angeles County. Significant reductions in the proportions of three and four year olds who are obese. We're far from out of the woods. The obesity epidemic isn't over. But we're seeing perhaps the beginning of the end of the obesity epidemic, we're seeing very positive signs in many places around the country where we've implemented the policies, we're seeing our children become healthier.
